WILL SEARCH Under Dacite FOR THE ORE

Tonopah Mining Company to Commence a Systematic Campaign in the Mizpah on the Nine Hundred Level.

The tonnage that went from the Tonopah Mining Company to the Desert mill at Millers last week, amounted to 3550 tons.
There were shipped to the mill for the same length of time, $75,000 in bullion. This is a pretty good record for a week for both mine and mill. The upper levels in both the Mizpah and the Valley View shafts are producing the ore, and the Red Plume shaft is being used to develop the five and six hundred levels.

The Valley View shaft is being extensively worked, and the work is being prosecuted in the upper levels mainly. The work, in fact, is approaching the surface, coming up to a point where the bottom of the cuts of the early day leasers ended. The heavy blasts in the afternoon and early morning come from the Valley View shaft, and the reason that they are so loud is because there is little between the work and the open air.

The Tonopah is also doing some work in the lower levels in the way of developing the ore beneath the dacite. They are prospecting from the 900 level, which is the greatest depth of the mine.

near future, however, we are going to get to work, and will inaugurate a most active campaign, and continue the work to the end."

The nine hundred level would appear to be the proper depth for the Tonopah Mining Company to go after the fault in the Mizpah mine. Its neighbors have all done their development work in the neighborhood of this depth. The Midway got down to the 800, and then sunk a winze to a depth which will be carried 200 feet further, from which they will prospect for the ore body under the dacite. The Montana Tonopah is down to the 765 level, where the ore was found again beneath the dacite formation, and they are waiting untill the developments have been sufficiently prosecuted in the Midway.

The North Star, far above the Mizpah shaft has encountered good stringers on the 1250 level, and the Belmont has penetrated the extremities of the dacite intrusion at the 1000 level.

BANK CASE IS Taken Under ADVISEMENT

Judge O'Brien Hears Arguments as to Whether or Not Books of State Bank Shall Be Produced for Inspection by Grand Jury.

Cashier Cushman was in the district court yesterday afternoon to show cause why he should not produce the books of the State Bank and Trust Company before the Nye county Grand Jury. He was represented by W. B. Pittman, while District Attorney P. H. McCarran appeared on behalf of the State. Both attorneys submitted affidavits in support of the contention of each, and later indulged in oral argument, citing the law and decisions in their favor.

Mr. Pittman resisted the motion on the ground that it was too sweeping in its character, in that it did not designate the books that were wanted, but included all the books.
He read an affidavit from Cashier Davis of the bank, which declared that he was the custodian of the bank's affairs, and that Mr. Cushman could not have known whether the bank was solvent or not, as such information was to be had only in Carson, the headquarters of the bank. He knew nothing about the closing of the banks until he received the wire from Davis, ordering him to close. The affiant believes that the bank was solvent when ordered to close on October 23d, and that it is still solvent. It was closed because of insufficient currency to keep it open; currency was short all over the country and all over the world. Had Mr. Cushman known that the Tonopah branch was insolvent, he could not have told whether the corporation, as a whole, was or was not insolvent.

Mr. McCarran's affidavit set forth that Cushman could have refused to produce the books on one ground only, and that was his constitutional right on the ground that the books would tend to incriminate him. He not only waived this right, but had affirmed in his affidavit that he did not fear to produce the books through any personal reasons. Mr.
Cushman had been asked before the Grand Jury if the Tonopah Exploration Company had not an overdraft of $15,000, without any security, and if at one time it had not been allowed an overdraft of $40,000, without any security. Mr. Cushman had admitted that this was so, the district attorney stated, and had afterwards declared that the Tonopah Exploration Company was composed of ten men, of which he was one of the number. It was also stated in the affidavit that Mr. Cushman had testified before the Grand Jury that several deposits had been received on the 22d of October, the day before the bank closed.

Mr. Pittman asked the district attorney if Mr. Cushman had not call-
